

Pearbox Art, Anne Anderson, Jeweler

Anne Anderson

Anne is a painter and she loves to paint the empty canvas of a woman's décolleté. She began making jewelry about twelve years ago when she couldn't find anything on the market that she liked enough to purchase. Her passion is rare, high quality gemstones, freshwater pearls and precious metals. Her jewelry is feminine and delicate, yet a bold artist's statement. They are the ultimate accessories satisfying those who love to wear one-of-a-kind art. These are limited edition pieces due to the rarity of the gemstones from all parts of the world. Anne's clasps are handmade – silvery toggles made from precious metal silver clay and hammered fine silver hooks and eyes. Some are 18 karat gold fill, or 24 karat gold vermeil. Anne's pieces are in personal jewelry collections worldwide, and she guarantees you will get scores of compliments on your new artisan jewelry acquisition.
