

Sanjida Sharmin Mity - "Music from Heaven", Mixed Media on Glass

Mity

Vincent Van Gogh once said, 'I dream my painting, then I paint my dream.' Mity's work is analogous to it. 'Painting is a dream' says Mity, '-a dream that I see with colors in my eyes'. Mity's every stroke on her canvas speak a language by which only a heart seeking comfort, a heart seeking love, a heart seeking warmth and solace can relate to. The sublimity of her brushes' strokes with each fine layer, unravel a depth visible to the eyes looking for it. Mity loves her life and her family which is reflected in her painting. She uses glass as her canvas and alcohol ink, acrylic as her main choice of medium along with oil pastels. She complements her art with textures from modeling paste, fabrics, and various other natural elements. She experiments on varied levels and each time she enacts a magnificent piece of art.
