

Angelina Allison

I was born and raised in a small town in Eastern Washington and started calling North Bend my home over ten years ago. I have been creating art since the age of 7 and sold my first piece by 12. By the time I turned 18, I have been published in 3 magazines and won numerous certificates of excellence for my high school granting me the honor of valedictorian for my graduating class.

I have participated in many art fairs and street functions, working as a graphic designer for a newspaper and a high-quality magnet company for many years and during this time, I was published in 4 books. Fast forward to today; I am receiving my Masters in Oil and Drawing currently in my 21st week of school.

Presently, I am finding my voice in my paintings, creating an outstanding portfolio, and developing my website. The future is extremely bright.
